The Carmel Pine Cone

From a WINDOW IN VAGABOND'S HOUSE

A New Year's Greeting

by DON BLANDING

A few more days and it will be 1939. A mystery story with 365 daily installments each ending with "continued tomorrow" and there's no way of getting advance viewing of the new installments except by living them through. I'm all agog to begin it. I hope (and suspect) that it will be just as exciting as 1938. What fascinating conjecture as we throw our minds into these future days! What will we be looking back on as yesterday's news when 1940 swings around. History is being made on a large order these days. Where will the dictators be? (a respect for the sanctity of The Pine Cone prevents me stating where I hope they'll be). Where will all of us be? Will "Peace on Earth, Good Will to Men" have a less ironic ring for millions of people of the world next Christmas? Will the world madness have abated somewhat? Will people be able to relax and enjoy the unlimited wonders which are given us daily by man and by God? We can only hope and work toward that end.

I've never felt so grateful for the "abundance which is mine" as this year. Christmas was particularly joyous due to my being in my own home among friends with Christmas stockings opened before the fireplace. This feeling of gratefulness was triply enhanced by the knowledge of the hopeless thousands wandering homeless, helpless, cheerless in so many parts of the world at present. From the depths of my heart came thankfulness that I had a roof, a yard with flowers in it, a fire blazing cheerily, the sound of laughter in the house, the freedom to think and say our thoughts without fear of brutal punishment if our thoughts vary from the pattern laid down by vicious dictatorship. Truly we who live in America have cause to be thankful. Our great, splendid country, even with its growing pains, is so lusty and healthy and strong. And we in California have particular reason to be thankful. I had reason to realize this through the contrast offered by our sunny state to the other parts of the country which I visited on tour. And we of Carmel are extra-particularly fortunate. Somehow the clamor and misery of Elsewhere is magicked away from us. We are surrounded by a charmed circle which keeps most of the ghosts, demons and dragons away. There were those who sorrowed here and some who were lonely, undoubtedly, but surely the bitterness of loneliness must have been diluted somewhat by the beauty of the flawless Christmas Eve with its star-spangled sky and the day with its golden flood of sunlight.

Today, as I write this copy, I look out on a blue sea laced with the white foam of waves; the pines and cypress and live-oaks weave a beautiful lace of branches against the sky; there are a thousand fragrances mingled in the breeze, the smoke of fireplaces from Carmel homes, the smell of a few brave acacias, the salty fragrance of the ocean. It is a wonderful sachet.

A colorful wreath, gift from a dear friend, somewhat masks the carved letters on the mantelpiece of Vagabond's House, but I do not need to see them to read the message and say it with deep sincerity from a full heart: "Lord, I do give Thee thanks for the abundance that is mine."

Aloha and a happy 1939.

TO FILM STEINBECK'S "OF MICE AND MEN"

John Steinbeck, who spent Christmas in Carmel, has gone east to complete final arrangements for filming of his play "Of Mice and Men," which will begin in the Salinas Valley, according to Louella O. Parsons, motion picture syndicated writer. Site of the original story "Of Mice and Men" is the Salinas Valley. Steinbeck was born in Salinas, the son of the late John Steinbeck, for many years county assessor.

THAT TALL, DARK MAN YOU'LL MEET

—At the P. G. & E. office is Lloyd Weer, frequently the villain in old-time melodramas revived by the Troupers of the Gold Coast. Here Weer presents a handful of posies for your New Year greeting. You may read more about this handsome fellow on page 7.

Players Open New Year With "Laugh That Off"

Happy New Year! say the Carmel Players as they present their last stage hit of the 1938 season and their first of the year 1939. It's "Laugh That Off," which Carmel audiences began doing last evening at the Filmarte Theater and will continue doing this evening, tomorrow and Sunday nights.

Nina Kitselman, blond and sprightly, heads a cast that includes some of the outstanding performers who have lent their ability to the successes of the Carmel Players which were chalked on their calendar during a busy and fruitful year.

Among these are the fair thespians, Beverly Tait, Edith Frisbie and Janet Large. Miss Large filled in at a late moment when Joan Tait was unhappily stricken with "flu." "A great sport to come to our aid!" declared B. Franklin Dixon, when he announced that Miss Large, who scored in "Yes, My Darling Daughter!" took over the part of "Toots" Valentine.

Del Page and Bob Bratt are two sterling actors who top the list of male characters, with Ted Leidig, Everett Gray, Frank Dickinson and Joseph Scelzi completing the cast.

The following is the list of characters and cast: Peggy Bryant, Nina Kitselman; Emmie, "Mopopus", Beverly Tait; Mrs. Connally, Edith Frisbie; "Toots" Valentine, Janet Large; Leo Mitchel, Del Page; Robert "Re-morse" Morse, Bob Bratt; Arthur Lindau, Ted Leidig; Jimmy Valentine, Everett Gray; Mike Connally, Frank Dickinson; Tony the Ice Man, Joseph Scelzi.

The Players are also doing a floor show at the Hotel San Carlos in Monterey for New Year's Eve.

Charles McCarthy Back in Carmel

Old friends this week welcomed back Charles "Chick" McCarthy, dramatic director who first came to Carmel with the St. James Players and remained to direct for the Carmel Players from the end of last year until mid-summer.

McCarthy has been at his home in Pittsburgh and got back to Carmel Christmas Day. His period as director for the Players was one of their most successful and he was highly regarded both for his work and for his friendly personality.

ROBT. WALTON, NIGHT OFFICER, JOINS FORCE

The Carmel police force is a five-man unit, as recommended by August Vollmer, police expert, in a recent survey. Robert Walton, 29, who has attended San Jose police school and San Jose State College, was appointed to the force Wednesday afternoon.

Walton will start on Jan. 1 at the usual starting figure of $135 per month. He will be assigned to night desk duty and will give the force a better chance for patrol of the city during night hours, as suggested by Vollmer.

The new officer comes with high recommendations and Police Commissioner Frederick R. Bechdolt declared that Walton was getting his radio license—to qualify him for operation of the $800 radio which is a New Year's promise.

Walton also served with the Marine constabulary in Central America.

INVOKE ZONING LAW DEMAND OF HOTEL MEN

The council chamber saw its first excitement in months when John B. Jordan, of Pine Inn, a former mayor, and Fred Godwin, of La Playa, asked the council "how come?" with regard to a competitor they declared to be "unfair" and infringing a city zoning ordinance.

Members of the council stated that they had delved into the matter and had turned it over to City Attorney W. L. Hudson for consideration.

When council members declared the matter was not in their hands nor was the police department prepared to take action in the absence of a complaint or recommendation of their attorney, Jordan appeared distressed. Especially did he seem disturbed that Hudson had taken "too much time" over the zoning matter and suggested "get a new attorney." Bechdolt declared the delay "inexcusable."

The subject of their complaint, Godwin and Jordan indicated, operated without license and gave free meals, presenting "unfair" competition to them in their legitimate hotel business. They declared their fear was not so much of this one instance of asserted zoning ordinance infringement, but of the possibility of many more such infringements.

An investigation of this case was urged by Godwin, who offered to assist the city.

Murphy Begins Sanitary Job

Work on the actual site of the sewage disposal plant was scheduled this week by M. J. Murphy, Inc., low bidder on the job of clearing the right-of-way for a 520-foot pipeline to the "island site" on Carmel river.

Murphy bid $250 for the job for which F. C. Stoile company of Pacific Grove asked $480 and the Granite Construction company of Watsonville asked $548.

Work must begin under federal rules before Jan. 1 to qualify under PWA terms. Bids were opened last Thursday night.

ISLAND NOVELIST TO BE SPEAKER

After the holiday breathing spell, the Carmel Woman's Club is prepared to resume its activities, with the usual heavy schedule of first-week-of-the-month activities. Next week will be marked by three club programs, the regular general monthly meeting on Monday afternoon at 2:30; the meeting of the book section on Wednesday morning at 10:30, and the garden section meeting Thursday morning at the same hour.

The program for the Monday afternoon general meeting will be presented by Armine von Tempski, one of Carmel's resident writers. Miss Von Tempski, who is Mrs. Al Ball in private life, has an exceptionally interesting background which will provide material for her club program on the subject, "The Hawaii You Don't Know." She was born and reared on an enormous cattle ranch in the Hawaiian Islands, taught by Hawaiian cowboys to ride fearlessly, to love the islands, and to understand their hidden lore. These centaurs wear, according to Miss Von Tempski, "flower leis on their hats and knives in their boots," and they are reputed to be the finest riders in the world.

Miss Von Tempski has drawn on her island background for the colorful material embellishing her half-dozen novels, many short stories and magazine articles. Living in Hollywood for a number of years before coming to Carmel, she established herself in Southern California as a club entertainer of vividness and charm.

Burge Gets Bid On Avenue Plants

Bids on plants for the Ocean avenue and Dolores street landscaping were "so messed up," as Corum Jackson quoted T. D. Church, landscape architect as saying, but Joe Burge cornered that part of the job, granted for $496.32.

This, Jackson, chairman of the parks commission, revealed at Wednesday afternoon's council meeting when he submitted a warrant for that amount. Burge is supplying 825 shrubs and 60 larger plants. The figure of $496, Jackson indicated, is "probably more than half of the entire bill" for planting Ocean avenue.

Most of the smaller shrubs, Jackson said, were a dwarf juniper.

Several bids were submitted, but no other figures were given.

Taxicab Ordinance Gets Final Reading

Carmel's taxi drivers must be pure of heart and clean of record in the eyes of the police. Also they must get municipal licenses and for these pass a test.

So says an ordinance adopted by the city council Wednesday afternoon.

Strict control of the taxi drivers is placed in the hands of the police department through this ordinance. Above all they must not pander, nor be known to have ever pandered, for such is now the law in Carmel.

AN APPRECIATION OF JEFFERS.....

by Alicia L. Rooney

Readers of The Pine Cone are fortunate in having had a comprehensive and first-hand discussion of Robinson Jeffers and his work. For here is a poet-unique, both in his personality and work.

Too little has been said of him, perhaps because too little is known, which, no doubt, is as it should be. But we should have more earnest inquiry about his work, and less tendency toward comparisons.

It seems to me that critics are attempting to back Jeffers up to other poets, trying to find the measure of his genius. This cannot be done any more than we can, by the same method, determine whether Bach is greater than Beethoven, or if either is greater than Richard Strauss or Debussy. No two of them can be measured by the same rule.

Carmel's very good critic-teacher, Roy J. Gale, did well to "contrast" Jeffers with Whitman. The stature of either of these two great poets is not diminished by analysis, but to think of Jeffers' work in the same light as of any other poet, living or dead, seems impossible.

I would question Mr. Gale's study of Jeffers, in one or two instances. First: that man is greater than his work. It is generally conceded that man seldom produces his capacity. A talented artist is usually capable of greater things. But genius cannot be considered on the same plane. I would say that as genius develops in a man of the spiritual calibre of Jeffers, that the man and his work are on par. His greatest work is the peak of his great intellectual flights. We are too prone to expect genius to hold a continual and steady flame, unvarying save in greatness and intensity. But so long as genius is housed in the human form, its flame smoulders; leaps or wavers. Work created under these conditions reflect the human quality.

Nor would I recognize in Jeffers' "disdain of life, love and friendship" any type of weakness. On the contrary, I would call it great strength. He may not have what we commonly call the gift of friendship, but any mature man or woman can witness that true friendship is one of the rarest bonds existing among human beings. Too often what passes for friendship is nothing more than polite hypocrisy, force of circumstances, no disturbing or self-revealing incident, or that meanest and most common trait—personal gain.

Jeffers has said that love is a "trap for great spirits." And is it not? Many of our greatest writers have said so in other words. Bacon's essay on the subject declares, "... in life it doth much mischief," and more than once calls it a weakness. Edmund Burke, in writing about love has this to say in part, "... The violent effects produced by love, has sometimes been even wrought up to madness . . . From Pascal's Thoughts, we read, "He who will know fully the vanity of man has only to consider the causes and effects of love. The cause is I know not what, and the effects are dreadful. This so small an object that we cannot recognize it, agitates a whole country, princes, armies, the entire world. Cleopatra's nose: had it been shorter, the whole aspect of the world would have been altered."

History describes fallen dynasties because of it. Legend is full of its tragedies and complications. Opera keeps many of these stories dramatically and beautifully alive. Ever conscious of the frailty of human behavior, Jeffers portrays that side of the balance. Glance at random through his short poems and you will see this borne out repeatedly. Here are a few phrases:

"Not to be deluded by dreams."
". . . or else you will share man's pitiful confusions . . ."
"With little practice you'll believe anything."

". . . avoid men, live with more kindly wolves . . ."
"The squalor of our own frost-bitten forefathers."

Quite often I have thought that human nature is quite rotten at the core, and the only thing that separates us as individuals from the fate of Jeffers' protagonists, is opportunity and severe pressure. If you've ever been reasonably close to someone who lived what seemed a normal life, with average ups and downs, until some savage impulse came into being under stress, causing him to commit murder or suicide, you can more readily see that this is true.

Jeffers "not being considered" in the selection for "Poets Laureate of America," is not to be held against him or those who elected our John Steven McGroarty. Nor does McGroarty's election indicate that he is in any sense the superior or even equal of Jeffers. McGroarty writes for the common man concerned with his own small problems, and in such a role, does great service to his fellowmen. Jeffers writes for strong minds a thousand years hence. He probes at the shell that encloses the subconscious mind, and writes of things that only eternity will demolish.

In discussing Jeffers some time ago, the scholarly Benjamin De Casseres wrote me, "You must take and judge Jeffers as he is—not as he is not . . . He's austere, remote, priest-like, and without a sense of humor; something sculpt by a tragic God. I hope he remains just that."

And so he must be, for when Jeffers writes, he is on such a remote plane that we who read flounder and are benumbed in our struggle to understand. The only way we know is by individual interpretation which leaves us groping.

To me, one of the most exquisite things Jeffers has written is a short poem from his "Solstice," called "Sign Post." There he seems to be peering down lovingly, pityingly, trying to show the rest of humanity the way of freedom and greatness.

"... look at the silent stars, let your eyes

"Climb the great ladder out of the pit of yourself and man.

"Things are so beautiful, your love will follow your eyes;

"Things are the God, you will love

God, and not in vain . . .

"... but now you are free, even to become human,

"But born of the rock and the air,

not of a woman."

Here one feels the solidarity of the ground upon which he walks, and poignant in his concern for the weakness of humanity which must be bolstered by such frail things as "life, love and friendship."

In studying Jeffers' work, it is a special delight to discover, "Self-Criticism in February." Much is packed into those few lines. He seems to be trying to bring himself in accord with the rest of his immediate world, and argues both sides of his question. However, he remains true to himself and that quality of portraying things as they are, stripped of the cloak of this thing we call civilization, and disqualifying himself to become a "poet laureate." In his unerring, surgeon-like skill of vision he records:

"Then what is most disliked in those verses

"Remains most true."

The other argument continues:

"... Unfortunately, if only you could sing

"That God is love, or perhaps that social

"Justice will soon prevail."

But Jeffers knows this will not come about, and this man "sculpt by a tragic God," writes from his own superb, uninfluenced intellect,

"... I can tell lies in prose."

There was a time when the stories in Jeffers' long poems disturbed me greatly, but I have learned to read them as I have learned to listen to the great tragic operas. A panoramic vision of the story in the background serves as a submerged foundation upon which the structures of great music is built. I visualize the symbol, and yield my senses and spirit to the beauty of the music, its power to revitalize, uplift and transport the imagination into fantastic existences. When I have returned to the world in which I live, I seem glad to have made an impossible journey, and am grateful for the strength of music—and feel a little nearer an understanding of the genius of the tragic beauty in the work of Robinson Jeffers.

FRANCIS McCOMAS, PAINTER OF CYPRESSES, IS MOURNED

The ashes of Francis John McComas, whose paintings made the cypress trees of the Monterey peninsula famous around the world, lie beneath a granite boulder among the cypresses he loved so well. They were buried this week at Cypress Point and a cypress was planted near the grave, at his special request.

"Frank" McComas, who came to California from his native Tasmania in 1898 in pursuit of adventure, was 64 at the time of his death in Monterey hospital Tuesday of this week. He had been ill for two years with a chronic heart ailment.

McComas, who first came to Monterey to live and occupied the Abrego and Bonifacio adobes there before moving to Pebble Beach, was a link with the old bohemian days of this village. He was a companion of George Sterling, Charles Warren Stoddard and Charles Rollo Peters, and was a part of the life of Monterey during the days of Isabel Percy West, Charles Dickman, Isabel Hunter and Evelyn McCormick. He was as well known in San Francisco artistic circles as he was on this peninsula.

In his later years, McComas had devoted himself to commissions for a score of the wealthiest families in this country. His paintings hang in the homes of Marshall Field, Irene Dupont and others of note, and are on exhibition in the Metropolitan Museum, New York City; the California Palace of the Legion of Honor, the de Young Memorial Museum and San Francisco Museum and elsewhere. The great cypresses in the picture hanging over the lobby fireplace in the Hotel Del Monte and heroic murals in the Del Monte Lodge are among the best known McComas works.

McComas was married twice, first to Marie Louise Parrott of San Francisco, which marriage ended in divorce, and in 1917 to Gene Frances Baker, herself an artist of note, who survives him.

He will be remembered for his rare personality and wide range of ability and for the sterling craftsmanship of his painting.

HURRAY! BARBARA WINSLOW RANKED 4TH IN NATION

Official rankings of the United States tennis stars released last week-end placed Barbara Winslow, Carmel and Hollywood court star of 1919, as No. 4 among the women players of the nation.

Ranked in the first three places are Alice Marble, Sarah Palfrey Fabian and Dorothy Bundy. The two Helens, Jacobs and Moody, were not ranked this year.

Miss Winslow is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Winslow of Carmel and is at present visiting her parents for a few weeks. She is a sister of Mrs. R. L. Cockburn.

Reader's Reaction

Some weeks ago, the Pine Cone published an editorial referring to grade crossing accidents. The following is a letter received in this connection from H. A. Rowe, manager claims department of The Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad company:

Editor, Pine Cone,
Carmel, California
My dear Mr. Cockburn:

Mr. Adam Darling has written requesting that I send to you statistics showing the number of persons killed and injured (automobile accidents only) on crossings in the different states. I find that the only available figures, which I enclose herewith, are for the Highway Crossing Accidents in Which Autos were Involved for Year 1937. In addition thereto the total number of highway grade crossing casualties was 2,081, of which 900 were killed and 2408 were injured for the first eight months of 1938.

Trusting that this may be of some service to you, I am,

Yours truly,

H. A. ROWE.

"Thus saith the Lord the King of Israel, and his redeemer the Lord of hosts; I am the first, and I am the last; and beside me there is no God." These words from Isaiah comprise the Golden Text to be used Sunday, Jan. 1, in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, branches, of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon will be "God." Included among the Scriptural selections will be: "Remember the former things of old; for I am God, and there is none else; I am God, and there is none like me, Declaring the end from the beginning, and from ancient times the things that are not yet done, saying, "My counsel shall stand, and I will do all my pleasure." (Isa. 46: 9, 10).

The following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, will also be included: "God is Mind, and God is infinite; hence all is Mind. On this statement rests the Science of being, and the Principle of this Science is divine, demonstrating harmony and immortality" (p. 492).

OCEAN CURRENT FLOWS PAST CARMEL AT HALF-MILE DEPTH

The discovery of a huge "river" never before known to man, but which flows almost within rifle-range of Carmel, Santa Barbara, Santa Monica and San Diego, is announced by Dr. Francis P. Shephard, geologist, as the final contribution to his discoveries during the 18 months he has been working at the University of California's Scripps Institution of Oceanography at La Jolla. He is just completing his present work, and is returning to the University of Illinois, where he is associate professor of geology. Next summer he will return to this coast for another six months of investigation.

An accurate survey of this deep sea current will be most difficult, Dr. Shephard agrees. But it proves the existence of deep-sea ocean currents, he believes, and supports the belief that there are other deep-sea currents, some perhaps much deeper than the one just found, whose presence may have revolutionary bearing upon many problems now confronted by oceanographers throughout the world.

RESULTS!

Results. That is what we ask of any person or committee elected or appointed to a position of trust. We are not entirely disinterested in means of attaining results, but do not like to meddle or editorialize on what should be done providing the results are satisfactory. It is when there appear to be no results or when it is apparent that the results are likely to be contrary to the best interests of the town and its citizens that The Pine Cone does not hesitate to pitch in and take a definite stand.

We have always felt that our elected or appointed representatives serving the community in any position should be allowed to work out the solution to the best of their ability and it is our policy not to attack an individual so much as the office when there is an unsatisfactory outcome. We now serve notice on all boards and individuals elected to governmental positions that we must have results in 1939.

The writer has served on a board where a few of the citizens tried to interfere in a highly technical matter which resulted only in delaying the results expected.

As the New Year approaches it is customary to review policies and having done so, we take this opportunity of clarifying our position as regards civic affairs. At no time will we air our personal feelings towards an individual. We don't believe in that sort of journalism.

We are writing this editorial full of youthful confidence in the future and with the firm belief that 1939 is going to be a big year for Carmel, our sincere hope being that every resident will have a full share of the benefits.

What Carmel needs is MORE PINE TREES. The city council sighs each meeting over ever-increasing requests to remove trees on city property. While these requests are for the most part justifiable and as such are granted by the council, there is another aspect to this denuding of Carmel.

Carmel grew largely into the village that it is because of strenuous and consistent objections to the removal of the pine trees with which the area was blessed. Other communities, as soon as the streets were laid out and utilities installed, razed most of the natural tree growth. Carmel, on the other hand, kept its woodsy atmosphere, and people coming here from bare valley towns and treeless cities have gasped with joy on beholding the wooded slopes and shaded village streets.

But let us, this coming year, take a new hold on this problem of trees and, instead of wringing our hands and dropping a tear each time a tree comes down, go out and plant a few trees. Following the lead of the Ocean avenue and Dolores street landscaping, Carmelites would be well repaid in planting a tree, or perhaps several, for every tree removed.

This might well be a penance for those who request removal of pine trees, that they forthwith plant five young pines and tend them until they are strong enough to take their place in the arboreal community.

So, "Plant a Pine in '39".

* * * *

In two days 1938 will be "last year" and 1939 will be not only welcomed in the customary manner, but probably with a stronger spirit of hope for the future. The population of Carmel which so largely depends on the stock exchange for its security values, is constantly reading in the daily press bright forecasts for the coming year's business.

For Carmel the future never looked brighter on

THOUGHT FOR THE NEW YEAR

*When Life is lifted on the rhythm of Love
 That widens onward with majestic flow,
 It matters not what ripples rise and go
 Across the surface ruffled from above.
 For on the full strong current of the tide
 That yearns ahead for union with the sea
 The lesser curves are carried light and free
 And all the litter from the banks beside.*

*The light that falls upon the river's breast
 However broken by the winds that play,
 However torn by motion without rest
 Returns to shining wholeness through the day;
 And all the little waves that rise and run
 Are kissed into the image of the sun.*

—D. H.

MARZILIAN

*From out the lone hill torn she rose,
 The wind had swept it chill and bare;
 Her eyes were sombre as the pool,
 Like water-weed her long smooth hair.*

*Her feet on the dew-weighted grass
 Were slim and fine and light as flowers,
 Her body like the naked moon
 Was beautiful with life not ours.*

*She walked beneath the quicken trees,
 Singing low and sweet she went;
 She touched a bough, she plucked a leaf,
 When she had gone no twig was bent.*

—ELLA YOUNG, from "Marzilian."

WINTER

*After bright leaves, and harvest crisply binned
 Winter emerges, crystal javelined.
 The pines hold high their snowy shoulder capes,
 The bushes sparkle with their frosty drapes.
 The furry woodland creatures burrow deep—
 The houses huddle like flour-dusted sheep;
 The mountain wears an icy-silver crown
 And garden beds hug quilts of eiderdown.*

—FRANCES ELLIOTT.

THE CHARIOT OF LIFE

*As the chariot of Time
 Speeds nightly down the red-gold pathway
 Of the sun,
 Birth, maturity and death
 All that Time knows
 Like golden Autumn leaves
 Lie strewn along her trail.
 The vials of our tears are emptied to her winds
 And dried.
 Within the ruts beneath the fiery wheels
 Lie buried laurel leaves, time-blown.
 Scattered now the passing and the vain,
 But ever unmoved by the golden chariot-flight
 Untouched amid the wreckage
 Strewed upon the path of Time
 The immutable smiles on!*

—HELEN COOLIDGE.

reviewing the list of new assets promised to be fact next year. We think of:

A better protected beach through an initiative petition for an ordinance; this is the tightest type of law the city can make;

An up-to-date sewage disposal system; Through government aid and staunch friends the Forest Theater will be renovated;

Carmel voted itself its own high school district and will have its own school by next Fall;

A beautifully landscaped Ocean avenue and Dolores street;

The strong possibility of the city obtaining El Paseo building and thereby gaining a beautiful city hall;

The Bank of Carmel showing its faith in the future of Carmel by investing thousands of dollars in a new building.

All the above items are new, but we salute all of the perpetuated programs of the village such as Bach Festival, community dramatics, art association and we know that many other fine accomplishments will be forthcoming next year.

During the past few months we have been very happy indeed to print certain pictures of Peninsula news and feature interest. This is a new departure for The Pine Cone and at first we were doubtful that an undertaking of this nature would justify itself. However the publishers took a chance and now find that the reception to pictures in Carmel has been very warm. We will continue to print pictures from week to week and are able to offer to advertisers and publicity committees pictures at a very low cost.

It may be somewhat early to begin plugging for the school election, on January 10th, next year, however we want to stress now the importance of going to the polls at Sunset School on that Tuesday.

The election is called to confirm by ballot the signatures of the petition presented to Superintendent of Schools James G. Force. This is another important link in the long chain of procedure culminating in the obtaining of our own high school.

ON SCHOOL LOCATION

We heartily endorse Mr. Frank Shea, Mrs. E. A. H. Watson, Mr. V. D. Graham, school trustees, in their stand on the selection of location for the new high school. The trustees have not yet committed themselves but all the way through have checked and double checked with experts. Space here does not permit publishing the list of state school, construction, and highway officials who have been consulted, not as to where they would LIKE TO SEE a high school, but from the viewpoint of WHERE a school could be BEST placed from a practical, economical and safety point of view.

Nor would any conscientious school trustee do anything else but take these precautions. Should there be an accident involving the school through lack of precautions on the part of the trustees they can be individually sued. It is all very well for a small group to criticize and try to bring pressure to buy one site or the other—theirs is no responsibility, theirs is no risk.

This is another case in point in which we are asking for results and are not going to make newspaper capital out of entering and carrying a fight. We, too, would like to see the high school across the highway on Paul Flanders' property rather than Paradise Park—we think the park too beautiful to spoil—but if experts tell our elected representatives that one or the other is unsuitable, we are willing to abide by such decision.

Villain of Piece Often a Dark Man Called Weer

A recital of "Who's Who" in Carmel has brought forth many an interesting narrative. Few people going into the P. G. & E. office to pay a bill would suspect that the modest, business-like, dark young man who gives them their receipt is one of Carmel's most gifted actors.

Lloyd Weer was born in Sacramento. His mother was one of a pioneer Pacific Grove family, whose father gave name to the Lloyd Block there. Young Lloyd spent much time as a child in Pacific Grove, attending the local high school. At 17 he enlisted in the world war. When it was over, he went to business college, and before long found himself in the Monterey P. G. & E. office, to be transferred after two months to Carmel, where he has been manager for the last nine years.

If this were all, Lloyd Weer would be merely a successful business man. But, as has happened with more than one Carmel talent, Lloyd began his theatrical career in the Forest theater. His first part was in "Salome." His second was in "Little Women," directed by Byron Foulger in what is now the El Marte. From then on, as member of the Community Players, serving on the board with Mrs. Sidney Fish, Lloyd played part after part. Those who saw him in "Dangerous Corner" realized that he had exceptional ability as an actor.

In June, 1937, when the Denny-Watrous Management reopened the First Theater in California with the group known as the Troupers of the Gold Coast, Lloyd Weer revealed an amazing ability for old melodrama and for the variety acts of the olio following the First Theater shows. As "Phil Dolan" in "Tatters, the Pet of Squatter's Gulch," Lloyd created anew for 20 nights the part of the arch villain. Then, playing steadily in melodrama and olio with the Troupers of the Gold Coast, he became assistant director in "In the Shadow of the Rockies" and in "East Lynne," and directed and staged "The Forty-Niners" in its long run and repeats.

Lloyd Weer's last triumph was in "Ten Nights in a Bar-Room," which he directed and for which he staged the olio. The Troupers of the Gold Coast played "Ten Nights" for 11 successful nights, and now Lloyd is busy rehearsing them in a repeat production for Dec. 30, 31 and Jan. 1, adding new olio acts.

Lloyd understands the technical side of the theater as well as its entertainment side. During rehearsals and performances, in addition to playing the part of the villain, he may pull the curtain, hand out props, give a line to a new actor, call a cue, or be outside studying the reaction of the audience.

In 1925 Lloyd Weer married the lovely, golden-haired Caroline Krattinger, of Oregon. He has two young sons who go to Sunset school, and then there is Timmy, the devoted cocker, who dutifully watches the coming and going of the family. His pattern of life is orderly, responsible, with always a sense of humor. When you call for him at home, like as not he will come up from the basement, where he spends many hours in the darkroom, developing camera shots. For Lloyd is a member of the Carmel Camera Club and one of its most creative photographers.

A capacity for friendship is not lacking nor that appreciation of greatness that goes with people such as Lloyd Weer. He has spent many hours with George Marion, discussing plays and the art of acting in the library of that great man.

When Lloyd is not in the P. G. & E. office, not at a rehearsal, and not in the dark room or with his family, he is probably to be found at a business meeting in Monterey or Salinas or at a meeting of the city planning group in Carmel, or taking a higher chair in his fraternal order. But of this you may rest assured, that whenever Lloyd Weer has said he will be, there he is, quietly and with modesty accomplishing his work.

Old Adobe Holds Unusual Relics

In the Molera building, described as "one of the most precious adobes in California," there are antiques being assembled which give promise of being one of the most unique assemblages in the state. For 20 years Rev. T. J. Barkle's life has been linked up in quite an unusual way with those whose folks helped make history. Friends seem to be going out of their way in bringing and sending their treasures. Thirty years ago a member of Wendell Phillips' family sent the great orator's hat. There is a calling card of Abraham Lincoln, a portion of the bed on which David Livingstone slept; also laths from the ceiling of the school he attended; the fringe from Martha Washington's dress; letters from John Bright, John Tyndall, Walt Whitman, Charles Dickens, Lew Wallace, Jefferson Davis, Oliver Wendell Holmes, Rolla Peters and scores of others.

There is a justice of the peace record which goes right back to Walter Colton's day; 1770 and 1801 newspapers; one, "The Sun of Liberty," edited by S. F. B. Morse; Monterey county papers of 1852; slave contracts of 1845 and 1851, one of which states "a slave woman, Lucy and her

A book that was in California's first library in the old quartet and hundreds of other things.

Perry Worden of Pasadena says: "It's worthy of being written up in the metropolitan press," and just this week word came from the Smithsonian Institute that an official is being sent to look over the objects in the museum.

PEOPLE TALKED ABOUT

Some Carmelites remember a huge-built young man who wore a sailor suit and played a fiddle in the Mare Island Navy Yard orchestra which came to the Forest Theater for an afternoon performance during the war. A member of the band was Fred Search, cellist and old-time Carmelite.

The large young man with nearly a full head of sleek black hair, done in a pompadour style (the younger Carmel youths were wearing stocking caps desperately to train their hair in like manner) was destined to become famous, not as a violinist, but as a conductor.

It was Paul Whiteman, whose score of years as King of Jazz was commemorated last week in "Life" magazine with a biography by Frank Norris and, among the photographic illustrations, one showing Whiteman against the setting and pine trees of the Forest Theater stage. If the whole picture had been printed, it would have shown young Search at the other end.

and is provocatively illustrated with pen drawings—we suppose by Lynn, his attractive wife.

Mrs. Henry Potter Russell, of Carmel Valley, is the subject of comment in the San Francisco Call-Bulletin's "Fair Women" as follows:

Mrs. Henry Potter Russell is chateleine of a de luxe "farm" in the Carmel Valley, where typical California hospitality is dispensed.

But during these busy weeks pre-

Auto Licenses Due Jan. 3rd

First on the order of business starting the new year for California's millions of car owners will be renewal of automobile registration and securing new license plates for 1939.

Promptly on the morning of Tuesday, Jan. 3, after the week-end New Year holiday, the renewal period will get under way. It will close at midnight, Feb. 4.

Those who fail to apply before the time limit will be penalized by law with a doubled registration fee and a 50 per cent increase in the amount of license fee based on car valuation.

The regular registration fee is $3 for private passenger automobiles and the license fee is at the rate of $1.75 per $100 of value. Postcard notices of the total amount due are mailed in advance of the renewal period by the Department of Motor Vehicles. The postcard should be preserved and presented with the 1938 certificate of car registration when applying for 1939 plates.

Registration will be renewed and plates issued by the department at its various offices and by the California State Automobile Association to member motorists at offices in principal cities throughout northern and central California.

Plates for 1939 have an entirely new color scheme of gold lettering on a blue background. They also bear the words, "California World's Fair '39," to herald the Golden Gate International Exposition.

Those present were John Catlin, George and Catherine Seideneck, Charles Sayers, Stella Mather, Margaret Lang, Marian Howes, Eloise Cawley, Cordelia Gilman, Francis Whitaker, Dr. and Mrs. William McCabe, Jane Bouse, Myrtle Stoddard, Shirley Stoddard and Edith Lange.

Jimmie Hopper spent Christmas with his daughter, Maryan, (Mrs. Abe Mott), in Philadelphia.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Boone of Los Angeles arrived in Carmel last Friday night to spend the Christmas week-end. Mrs. Boone is the former Jane Hopper of Carmel. The Boones felt that they really hadn't breathed pure air and seen real sunshine since they were here a year ago, "as southern California just can't compare with Carmel."

Mr. and Mrs. Mark McCann and their daughter, Betty of San Francisco, were recent visitors on the peninsula. Betty is well known in the bay region society as an ardent photographer and her pictures have been used for illustrations in Country Life.

Bill Heron of San Francisco spent the Christmas week-end in Carmel with his father, Herbert Heron.

Mr. and Mrs. Artie Lane of Sacramento, formerly of Carmel, where they were active in the Carmel Players, added a little daughter to their family on Christmas day. The little girl, who had not been named when the news arrived, weighed six and a half pounds, and has an older brother, Charles, to welcome her when she arrives home from the hospital.

Daniel Mainwaring, who writes mystery fiction under the name of Geoffrey Holmes, has been on the peninsula this week, spending Christmas with his mother, Mrs. Edward S. Mainwaring of Monterey. Mr. Holmes' latest book is "The Man Who Did Not Exist"; among his other works are "The Man Who Murdered Himself" and "The Doctor Died at Dusk."

The New Year will mean moving to Lieutenant and Mrs. Robert Ferguson of the Monterey Presidio, as Lieutenant Ferguson has been appointed aide-de-camp to General H. T. Burdin of Fort Scott in San Francisco. Their new quarters are at present being prepared for them and they spent several days in San Francisco this week looking them over. 'Bar-Room Nights' Gets Under Way Cagney Picture

Tonight's the night, the beginning of three nights of hilarity and fun when the Troupers of the Gold Coast in the First Theater in California, Monterey, enact that great moral temperance drama, "Ten Nights in a Bar-Room," as performed by the principal English and American theaters.

Milton Latham as Mr. Romaine, Byington Ford as Sample Switchel, Ross Miller as Simon Slade, Harry Hedger as Squire Hammond's son, Lloyd Weer as Harvey Green, the gambler, "Hap" Hasty as Frank Slade, Billy Shephard as Joe Morgan, the drunkard, Thelma Miller as Mrs. Slade, Margenette Meldrim as Fanny Morgan, the drunkard's wife, Mary Jean Elliot as little Mary, the drunkard's child, and Jessie Joan Brown as Mehitable Cartright, make an all-star cast of Troupers.

New olio acts will feature Lloyd Weer, Byington Ford and Harry Hedger in "Experience," or "What Happened When She Went to Buy Eggs for an Omelet"; the irresistible Madelaine McDonagh in a new song and dance; Mary Jean Elliott in "Fishes"; and Milton Latham in an "elegant recitation", newly created for the performance. Old favorites repeated will be the "Schnitzelbank," and "Bushes at the Bottom of the Garden," that old London Music Hall hit without which no olio would be complete. What more, Director Lloyd Weer does not tell, but two hours of continuous fun are promised to all the audiences of "Ten Nights in a Bar-Room," running tonight, tomorrow and Sunday, in the First Theater in California, Monterey.

SAN CARLOS FLOOR SHOW

The floor show is entirely new with original stunts and a request performance of the Lambeth walk as directed by Everett "Spud" Gray. The floor show will begin at 11:15.

Cagney Picture

Plays at Carmel

"Angels with Dirty Faces," a sensational melodrama of the slums, co-starring the famous team of James Cagney and Pat O'Brien and featuring the "Dead End" kids, Humphrey Bogart, Ann Sheridan and George Bancroft, comes to the Carmel Theater Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

This is the intensely powerful story of two boys, brought up together in the slums, but whose lives become widely divergent when one of them is sent to the reform school for a prank in which both took part. He becomes a big-time gangster, while his friend enters the priesthood.

Their paths cross again, however, when the gangster, part of the mob that runs the city, bucks the priest who is heading a clean-up campaign with the object of saving thousands of slum boys of his parish from lives of crime. The strong bond between the two men makes their conflict doubly exciting and leads to the unique and thrilling climax, which is one that is declared to lift the picture high above the rank and file of gangster stories.

Celebration Set for Del Monte

Many Carmel residents will join with visitors from San Francisco, Los Angeles, and the East to celebrate New Year's Eve at Del Monte. With reservations already past the 600 mark indications are that this year's party will be the biggest ever held.

The spacious main dining room of the hotel has been decorated with colorful streamers and balloons and there will be special favors and entertainment. Freddie Nagel and his orchestra will be waiting to meet the gay crowds and to speed the old year on its way with his captivating rhythm.

There will be dancing until the early hours of 1939 and the celebration will continue on New Year's Day with a golf tournament in the morning and dancing on New Year's night.

Among those from this section who are planning to attend are William Judson and Miss Eleanor Morehead, Sam Coblenz and a party of three; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stratford of Pebble Beach, who will entertain for Mr. and Mrs. Agnew, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bennett and Mr. and Mrs. Eschen; Arthur Wilhoit of Carmel, whose guests will include Miss Grace Terry, Mr. and Mrs. Colter McKeever, Mrs. Elizabeth Sonberg, and Miss Caroline McKeever; Mr. and Mrs. Paul M. Burns, of Pebble Beach who will have Dr. and Mrs. Carl T. Wallace as their guests; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Monroe of Monterey; Major and Mrs. Seabury from the Presidio, who will entertain for their daughter, Betty Jane; and E. B. Gross, who will entertain for Miss Theodora Gross.

ORDINANCE NO. 202

AN ORDINANCE REGULATING AND LICENSING THE BUSINESS OF DRIVING MOTOR VEHICLES USED TO CARRY PASSENGERS FOR HIRE IN THE CITY OF CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA, AND REPEALING ALL ORDINANCES OR PARTS OF ORDINANCES INCONSISTENT HEREWITH, AND PROVIDING PENALTIES FOR THE VIOLATION HEREOF.

THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA DO ORODAIN AS FOLLOWS:

SECTION 1: For the purpose of this ordinance, the following terms shall be deemed and construed to have the meanings respectively ascribed to them in this section, unless from the particular context, it clearly appears that some other meaning is intended.

The term "taxicab" as used herein shall mean and include every motor vehicle of a distinct color or commercial appearance used in the business of carrying passengers for hire, and which is rented from a public or private garage or any fixed stand or location, and the destination and route of which are under the control of the passenger or passengers being carried therein.

The term "automobile for hire" shall mean and include every motor vehicle of private appearance, not equipped with a taxi meter and which is operated and hired from a public or a private garage or any fixed stand or location, and the destination and route of which are under the control of the passengers being carried therein, for a compensation which is fixed in accordance with the distance traveled, waiting time, or both.

The term "owner" shall mean and include every person, firm or corporation owning or controlling any taxicab or automobile for hire.

The term "driver" shall mean and include every person in actual charge and control of any taxicab or automobile for hire as the driver thereof.

The term "stand" shall mean and include a portion of the street designated by the City Council for the sole use of taxicabs while waiting for employment.

The term "taxi meter" as used in this ordinance shall mean and include a mechanical instrument or device by which the charge for hire of a passenger-carrying vehicle is mechanically calculated and receipted for, either for distance traveled or for waiting time or both, and upon which such charge is indicated by means of figures and a printed récépt.

The term "motor vehicle" when used in this ordinance, means every self-propelled vehicle used for transportation of persons over the public highways otherwise than upon fixed rails or tracks.

SECTION 2: It shall be unlawful for any driver to operate or drive any taxicab or automobile for hire operated or rented from a public or private garage or stand located within the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea, unless the driver thereof has obtained a license permit as herein provided, and said permit is in full force and effect. The application for such a driver's permit shall be made to the Chief of Police, shall be in writing and in duplicate, and the original thereof shall be duly acknowledged before some person lawfully authorized to administer oaths. Such original shall forthwith be transmitted to the City Clerk. Said application shall set forth the name, age and address of the applicant, his past experience in operating automobiles, the names and addresses of his employers during the preceding period of three (3) years, the number of his chauffeur's license, whether or not a chauffeur's license issued to him by the State of California or any other state or governmental agency has ever been revoked, the name and address of the owner by whom he is to be employed as a driver (said owner shall endorse the said application), and such additional information as the Chief of Police of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea may require.

SECTION 3: Upon application for a driver's permit, and before it shall be issued, the driver, whether the owner or otherwise, must evidence a proficient knowledge of the traffic laws of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea and of the State of California, and demonstrate his ability to operate the type of motor vehicle for which the driver's permit is sought, to the satisfaction of the Chief of Police. Upon satisfying the foregoing requirements, said driver shall be fingerprinted by, and his record filed in, the Police Department, Bureau of Identification. Every driver's permit issued hereunder shall set forth the name of the owner by whom said driver is employed and shall be valid only so long as he continues in the employ of such owner. Upon the termination of such employment, the said driver shall forthwith surrender his driver's permit to the Chief of Police. No such driver's permit shall be granted to any person under the age of twenty-one (21) years. Such driver's permit may be denied upon substantial evidence of facts of either physical or moral deficiencies of the applicant which in the sound discretion of the Chief of Police would render such applicant not a competent person to operate a taxicab or automobile for hire; provided, however, that no permit shall be issued to any person who shall have been convicted in the courts of any state of the United States or in any United States court of any of the following offenses:

(a) Driving a motor vehicle in a reckless manner, or while under the influence of an intoxicant or narcotics.

(b) Pandering.

(c) Using, possessing, selling, or transporting narcotics or intoxicating liquors.

(d) Imparting knowledge for the obtaining of narcotics or intoxicating liquors.

(e) Assault and battery.

(f) Any law or ordinance involving moral turpitude.

(g) Violating any of the provisions of this ordinance.

No such driver's permit issued hereunder shall be transferable in any event.

All drivers employed by any given owner, while on duty, shall wear a distinctive badge bearing the driver's number. Only such badges shall be worn as have been approved by the Chief of Police for use by drivers employed by a particular owner. Badges shall be worn in a conspicuous position. Upon the termination of the employment of any driver, the owner for whom such driver has been working shall immediately give the Chief of Police written notice of such termination.

SECTION 4: The Chief of Police shall have the power to revoke or suspend any driver's permit issued hereunder in the event the holder thereof shall be found guilty of a violation of any of the provisions of this ordinance or shall be found guilty of reckless driving or if he has violated any other law, which violation, in the sound discretion of said official, shall be deemed sufficient evidence of the fact that said driver is not a competent person to operate the motor vehicle for which the driver's permit was issued. In the event of such revocation or suspension of a driver's permit, such certificate as may be issued in connection therewith shall be by the holder thereof, forthwith surrendered to the Chief of Police.

SECTION 5: An application fee of One Dollar ($1.00) shall be required to be paid by each applicant for a driver's permit. All such application fees shall accompany the application and be paid to the tax collector of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea.

SECTION 6: When any permit is granted hereunder, the Chief of Police shall issue to the grantee thereof a certificate giving the name and address of the said grantee, the nature of the permit granted, and the name and address of the owner.

SECTION 7: Any person violating any of the provisions of this ordinance shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not exceeding Three Hundred Dollars ($300.00) or by imprisonment in the City Jail or the County Jail of Monterey County for not more than three (3) months, or by both such fine and imprisonment; and every day during any portion of which any of the provisions of this ordinance shall be violated, or during which there shall be a failure, neglect or refusal to comply with any of said provisions, shall constitute a separate misdemeanor, and shall be punishable as herein provided.

SECTION 8: It shall be the duty of the Chief of Police of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea to enforce the provisions of this ordinance.

SECTION 9: This ordinance shall take effect and be in force thirty (30) days from and after its final passage and approval.

SECTION 10: The City Clerk of said city is hereby instructed to cause this ordinance to be published once in the Carmel Pine Cone, the official newspaper of said city within fifteen (15) days after its final passage and approval.

SECTION 11: All ordinances and parts of ordinances in conflict with this ordinance are hereby repealed.
